

TENDER NOTES

An official publication of the Elvis Presley Memorial Foundation

Message from the Director

October, 2017

Even though warm weather is still with us, summer is fading away. Fall will be here before you can say "Elvis has left the building". This has been a terrific summer for all of us in the Elvis World. Because this was the 40th anniversary of his death, the Birthplace and even the streets of Tupelo were covered with FANS from all over the world.

Here at the Birthplace things have really been jumping. During our Fan Appreciation Day and several days following, over 50 motor coaches visited us and most visited the Downtown area as well.

The two newest venues really made an impact on our visitors. "BECOMING" has created an all new look for the overlook. These two statues, along with the story wall behind them, can be seen from the main building. "BECOMING" recreates the story of Elvis as a young boy dreaming at the overlook. It represents all that is ELVIS.

The second new venue is "REFLECTIONS". This beautiful lake has been totally rebuilt with water fountains in the lake and a waterfall that creates sounds that you have never heard before. New benches have been placed strategically around the lake to give you several places to view the surroundings. The "BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATERS" provides a great photo op. These type pictures make great holiday cards for your friends or family. Overlooking "REFLECTIONS" is the new picnic pavilion.

These next few weeks will be a great time to come and see us as colors begin to change and the evenings begin to be a little cooler.

Please give us a call to rent the facilities for parties, weddings, picnics, and any other special event you want to have.

Thanks,
Dick Guyton
